INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

Board of Directors
United States-Japan Foundation
New York, New York

We have audited the accompanying statements of financial position of United States-Japan Foundation (the "Foundation") as of December 31, 2000 and 1999, and the related statements of activities and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the management of the Foundation. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements enumerated above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of United States-Japan Foundation as of December 31, 2000 and 1999, and the results of its activities and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

UNITED STATES-JAPAN FOUNDATION

Notes to Financial Statements December 31, 2000 and 1999

NOTE A - THE FOUNDATION AND ITS SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

[1] The Foundation:

United States-Japan Foundation (the "Foundation") is a private foundation, organized in 1980 for the purpose of promoting understanding and cooperation between the peoples and institutions of the United States and Japan.

[2] Federal excise taxes:

The Foundation qualifies as a tax-exempt charitable organization under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code (the "Code") and, accordingly, is not subject to federal income taxes. However, the Foundation is subject to an excise tax, not to exceed 2% on net investment income, including realized gains, as defined in the Code. In addition, the Foundation must make certain minimum distributions in an amount equal to 5% of the average fair value of its assets held during the year.

[3] Accrual basis financial statements:

The financial statements of the Foundation have been prepared using the accrual basis of accounting.

[4] Net assets:

The Foundation's net assets which are unrestricted, represent resources available for current operations as there are no donor restrictions on the use of these assets.

[5] Fair value of financial instruments:

Financial instruments are composed of cash, loans receivable and other assets, the carrying values of which approximate their fair values. Similarly, the carrying amounts of liabilities are estimated to approximate their fair value. Investments are reported at fair market value.

[6] Use of estimates:

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, income and expenses. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

NOTE B - INVESTMENTS

[1] Investments are reported at their aggregate fair values, and investment transactions are recorded as of the trade dates.

Management records its investments in limited partnerships at estimated fair value, based upon financial statements provided by the general partners of such limited partnerships.

Any investments denominated in foreign currencies are translated at the closing rate of exchange at the end of the reporting period. Transactions during the year, including purchases and sales and income and expenses, are translated at the rate of exchange prevailing on the dates of the transactions.

UNITED STATES-JAPAN FOUNDATION

Realized and unrealized gains or losses on investments are determined by the comparison of specific costs of acquisition to the proceeds at the time of disposal and the market values at the balance-sheet date, respectively. Realized and unrealized gains or losses include the effects of currency translation with respect to foreign security transactions.

A forward exchange currency contract is a commitment to purchase or sell a foreign currency at a future date, at a negotiated rate. The gain or loss arising from the difference between the original contracts and the closing of such contracts is included in the net realized (loss)/gain on investments. The net realized gain/(loss) on forward exchange currency contracts was $32,804 and $(6,370), respectively, for the years ended December 31, 2000 and 1999.

[2] At each year-end, the cost and fair value of the Foundation's investments were as follows:

	December 31,
	2000		1999
	Fair Value	Cost	Fair Value	Cost
United States Investments:
Common stocks	$ 53,993,843	$ 35,384,366	$ 31,354,467	$ 23,028,261
Limited partnerships	18,592,151	19,098,357	18,043,903	12,958,872

Total investments	$ 98,693,625	$ 98,433,018	$ 110,568,967	$ 94,794,275

Approximately 46 percent and 29 percent of the Foundation's marketable securities were held by a highly capitalized financial institution, Suntrust, for the years ending December 31, 2000 and 1999, respectively.

In connection with investment activity, the Foundation selects various investment vehicles, including limited partnerships. Under the terms of the limited partnership agreements, the Foundation may make an initial capital contribution and may commit to funding additional capital. At December 31, 2000, the Foundation has no commitments to provide additional capital investments.

At December 31, 2000 and 1999, investments valued by the general partner of limited partnerships relating to not-readily-marketable securities aggregated approximately $2 million for each year.
